

A detailed map of Longniddry, Scotland, and its surroundings. The map shows the town of Longniddry, which is a coastal town on the Firth of Forth. Key features include:

- Coastline and Water: Gosford Bay to the north, Longniddry Dean to the west, and the Firth of Forth to the east.
- Towns and Villages: Gosford Estate to the north, Harelaw to the east, Redcoll to the south, and Seton Mains to the southwest.
- Transportation:
 - Roads: A198 (Gosford Way), B1348 (John Muir Way), B1377 (Harelaw Road), B6363 (Southfield Farm Road), and Kings Road.
 - Rail: Longniddry Rail Station, marked with a red circle.
 - Cycle Routes: Indicated by blue dotted lines.
- Landmarks and Buildings:
 - Longniddry Community Centre & Library
 - Longniddry Parish Church
 - Longniddry PS (Public School)
- Other Features:
 - WC (Water Closet) and P (Public) symbols.
 - A red dashed line indicating a boundary or path.

A wide-angle photograph of a sandy beach. In the foreground, the sand is light-colored and textured. In the middle ground, several people are standing near the water's edge, which is shallow and reflective. A black and white dog is also visible near the water. The ocean extends to the horizon under a clear blue sky with a few wispy clouds.

A collage of four images. Top left: A dirt path winding through a dense forest with tall, thin trees and a thick canopy of green leaves. Top right: A green directional sign with a white arrow pointing left, labeled 'Public Path' with icons for a dog, a bicycle, and a pedestrian, and a circular logo with the number 213. Bottom left: A sunset over a body of water, with the sun low on the horizon and its reflection visible. Bottom right: A person walking across a wooden bridge or boardwalk over a body of water, surrounded by lush greenery.

[illegible][illegible]

This map shows paths and routes around Cokenzie and Port Seton, which will enable us to get to and about and explore these historic harbour towns and the local area. 'Cokeny Harbour' features on 16th century maps as a thriving fishing port and is still in use today. Over the years the area was also a salt-making centre. At present Port Seton Harbour is home to a small fishing industry and some leisure boats. Look out for traditional pantile-roofed cottages and other clues to our history. Stroll through the grounds of 17th century Cokenzie House, currently used by the community. Nearby, 13th century Seton Collegiate Church is one of the finest surviving collegiate churches in Scotland. With its coastal walkways and harbours, Cokenzie and Port Seton are popular with day-trippers and holidaymakers. Elder duck and grey seals can often be spotted in the sea along this stretch of coast.

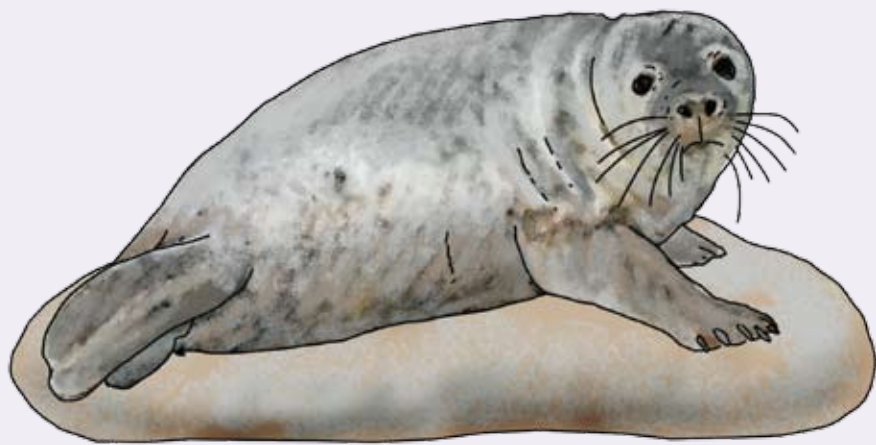

Core Paths in the Preston Seton Gosford Area

Core paths form the basic network of paths around East Lothian and link into the wider network of other paths and rights of way around the county. They can be anything from a tarmac path to a grassy field margin. Whilst each core path may not be suitable for all user groups, the core path system as a whole provides for all types of users and people of varying abilities.

This leaflet shows the designated core paths in the Preston Seton Gosford area. The smaller maps on the reverse show where the routes start in relation to the area's main settlements.

Please visit www.eastlothian.gov.uk and search for Core Path Plan to explore the wider East Lothian network.

Common seal

Oystercatcher

Sandwich tern

Common tern

Sea buckthorn

KNOW THE CODE BEFORE YOU GO
SCOTTISH OUTDOOR ACCESS CODE
outdooraccess-scotland.com

Enjoy Scotland's outdoors responsibly

- take responsibility for your own actions
- respect the interests of other people
- care for the environment.

Dog walkers, please keep your dog under close control, ensure you clear up after your dog and dispose of dog waste responsibly.

