

CSM

Canadian School of Management
335 Bay Street, Suite 1120, Toronto, ON M5H 2R3
csm@c-s-m.org

"Strategies and Resources for Lifelong Learning"

- Internet Learning
- Workplace Challenges and Agendas
 - Self-managed Learning
 - Technological Resources
- International and Local Knowledge Sharing
 - Flexible and Innovative Approach
 - Personal and Professional Development

Benefits:

- Work experience is recognized for advanced standing credits
- CSM does individual assessments and prepares personalized agendas and challenges
- CSM programs are developed to allow global interaction, sharing and networking with like-minded adults
- Available to working professionals
- Your workplace is your classroom
- Can be pursued anywhere, anytime and at a pace suitable to each individual
- Choose from over 60 courses from various fields

For further information, please contact:

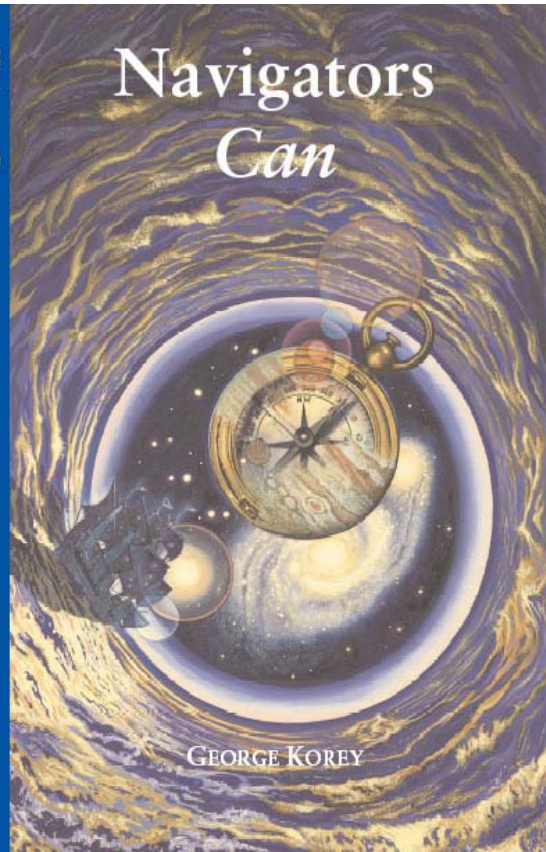

CSM
335 Bay Street, Suite 1120, Toronto, ON M5H 2R3 Canada
Phone: 416-360-3805 or 1-888-508-2642; Fax: 416-360-6863
Email: csm@c-s-m.org Web Site: <http://www.c-s-m.org>

$50.00 Canadian / £20 / €30
Proceeds all for the charitable work of the Canadian School of Management

Navigators Can

George Korey

Navigators Can

GEORGE KOREY

In Recognition

On the occasion of the Canadian School of Management's 25th Anniversary, it is only fitting to recognize and honour the man who started it all: Dr. George Korey.

Dr. Korey has often been called a visionary. Back in 1976, he realized the need for a School where professional managers could upgrade their qualifications – a School with a future-oriented approach to management education that was focused on coping with change and meeting the new educational needs of managers. With this vision, and with much courage, Dr. Korey created the only private, non-profit management oriented school in Ontario.

His foresight was correct – in a highly technological world of information systems, human values such as the ability to communicate, to judge, analyze and evaluate information, interaction skills, the quality of working life, motivation, leadership, problem solving and decision making, all are today of paramount importance. These concepts formed – and still form – the nucleus of an integrated program in the Canadian School of Management.

Dr. Korey is a man of many personalities – friend, diplomat, businessman, consultant, writer, community worker, educator, entrepreneur, mentor, a manager, and a leader. He is a human being who stimulates others to achieve – a Renaissance man in his versatility.

Dr. Korey has always had enormous energy, drive, courage and determination to succeed. He never waited for perfect conditions to implement his ideas; rather he used a strategic approach to overcome anticipated problems. Creative imagination, vision, will to succeed, strategic thinking and utilization of multifaceted perspectives in his thinking are the reasons for Dr. Korey's success.

Dr. Korey has earned many awards and distinctions as a result of his work and of his intellectual and social commitment. He has been highly recognized in Canada and internationally for his leadership and contribution to education and business.

Above all, though, he is a leader who inspires others to achieve, by placing his trust in their potential. He led the School into the future by creating opportunities for others to continue his vision and by generating their own.

As Dr. Korey has said: "We cannot do anything about our past mistakes, but we can certainly make sure that we can improve our present decisions that impact the future."

It is in passing this knowledge on to others, in playing a role model, a mentor and an educator, and in contributing to a better quality of Canadian management that Dr. Korey's achievement is most strongly felt and it is only proper that it is recognized publicly today on the occasion of CSM's 25th Anniversary.

Toronto, Canada
September 22, 2001

GEORGE KOREY-KRZECZOWSKI

"Korczak" Coat of Arms
which his family has had for 1000 years